D.F.S OFFICE MEMO

TO - George Dean
FROM George Shaver
SUBJECT Preliminary Thinking on Smoking Tobacco

DATE 6/26/69

I. Background

Sometimes the first thoughts and reactions one has to a new assignment, before being beaten back by all the grim facts and client taboos, are surprisingly valid (or at least stimulating). Also, we have the equity of "fresh minds" right now, which we will never have again. We should be able to generate more leverage now than at any time in the future against the mind sets that have built up in the Company over the years on smoking tobacco.

Here are some initial ideas I have, which since they are not fully thought through, might better be termed hypotheses or questions. I'd be interested in your reaction, and the reaction of those carboned:

II. The Smoking Tobacco Industry Situation

All of the tobacco companies are looking for opportunities to diversify, for obvious reasons. However, almost by definition every non-tobacco enterprise they get involved in cannot produce the profits to which they have become accustomed. Jim Hind tells us that Reynolds' smoking and chewing tobacco produces more profit (I assume he means percentagewise, rather than gross) than all their food and beverage company acquisitions combined. Yet, one gets the feeling that the Company thinks of smoking tobacco as a sort of corporate weak sister. On the contrary, I think the Company should regard smoking tobacco as its greatest growth and profit opportunity and be prepared to invest in it accordingly, at least on a test basis.

The problem with pipe smoking is certainly not in the area of ultimate satisfaction. Even a frantic pipesmoker like myself will attest to the fact that in its own way it provides as much as or more satisfaction than cigarette smoking. The problem with pipe smoking is 1) in the learning, 2) in the fact that smoking tobaccos are a parasite product, being dependent on pipes and pipe quality to produce satisfaction. This is not a brand or competitive problem, but rather an institutional and industry problem.

In order for any dramatic change to take place in the volume of pipe smoking in this country, it seems to me a major educational job will have to be undertaken with the public on the "How To", and the very real pleasures of pipe smoking, of course avoiding like the plague any knocks at or even reference to cigarette smoking.

Sehr geehrte Frau Dr. Stamminger,

Wie telefonisch besprochen sende ich Ihnen hiermit meine Angaben zu den Western-Experimenten.

phospho I $\kappa$ B:	Lotnr. 1	assayed: 9/98
I $\kappa$ B:	Lotnr. 2	assayed: 2/99

Versuchsdurchführung genau nach Anleitung von Phospho Plus I $\kappa$ B- $\alpha$  (Ser32) Antibody Kit, außer, daß der letzte Waschschrift ohne Tween 20 ist.

Gegen I $\kappa$ B sind die zu erwartenden Signale sichtbar, bei phospho I $\kappa$ -B keine Banden zu sehen (auch nicht bei der mitgelieferter Positiv-Kontrolle!).

Mit freundlichen Grüßen
